UPDATE (ADANI ELECTRICITY)

Adani Electricity Mumbai Limited advice kite fliers to avoid flying kites near overhead power transmission lines
Adani Electricity wishes Mumbaikars Good Health and happiness ahead of the joyous occasion of Makar Sankranti. While Adani Electricity uses an underground distribution network for Reliable Electricity supply to its 31.5 lakh customers, overhead transmission lines which bring power from outside Mumbai do exist in the city. Therefore, we caution kite fliers to avoid flying kites near these lines. This cautionary advice is issued in the spirit of a safe celebration. It is pertinent to note that the kite string or as popularly known as 'Manja', is a good conductor of electricity and can transmit very high voltage if it touches the overhead live wires or even enters the arching zone. Adani Electricity appeals to the consumers and citizens in these areas that if they notice or come to know of any untoward incidences as a result of the unsafe kite flying near power transmission lines, the same may please be reported immediately on AEML's dedicated Power Help Line 19122 so as to enable the utility to initiate further necessary action. Alternatively, they can also reach to our Social Media Handles @Adani_Elec_Mum or visiting our website or Adani Electricity App.
